-Veterans get served: To recognize the sacrifices of our region's military veterans this Veterans Day, several area restaurants are offering free meals or special discounts to say thanks. Click here to see the list of restaurants.

-We may not have an Ikea built in the Inland Northwest anytime soon, but with a new startup business called Urban Creek Delivery area residents can at least now have Ikea furniture delivered to Spokane for half the price.

-Oh yeah! Watch ex-Gonzaga star Kelly Olynyk eating a giant burrito in four bites.

Veterans Day is today.

A private charter jet with nine people on board fell from the sky and crashed into an Akron, Ohio, apartment building Tuesday. There are no survivors. At the time, no one was home in the apartment building and no one else was injured.

An 8-year-old Birmingham, Alabama, boy has been charged with murder of a 1-year-old girl allegedly left in his care. The girl's 26-year-old mother, who had left to go to a night club with a friend, was also charged with manslaughter. According to police, the child died from blunt force trauma to the head, and internal injuries.

Another Republican presidential debate went down last night, this time on Fox Business Network, and the candidates were quizzed mostly on economic policy. Here's the AP fact checking the debate.

One of the highest art sales ever: A former taxi driver turned billionaire art collector, confirmed he was the buyer of the painting of a nude woman by Amedeo Modigliani called Nu couché that sold for $170.4 million at Christie's New York earlier this week. See that painting here.
